CONSTITUTION, ETC.

PREAMBLE.

That the design of the Founders of this Seminary may be publicly known, and be sacredly regarded by the Directors, Professors and Students, it is judged proper to make the following preliminary statement:

A number of Christians, both clergymen and laymen in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, deeply impressed with the claims of the world upon the Church of Christ to furnish a competent supply of well-educated and pious ministers of the Gospel; impressed also with the inadequacy of all existing means for this purpose; and believing that large cities furnish many peculiar facilities and advantages for conducting theological education; having, after several meetings for consultation and prayer, again convened on the 18th of January, A.D. 1836, unanimously adopted the following resolution and declarations:

§ 1. RESOLVED, in humble dependence on the grace of God, to attempt the establishment of a Theological Seminary in the City of New York.

§ 2. In this Institution it is the design of the Founders to furnish the means of a full and thorough education, in all the subjects taught in the best Theological Seminaries in this or other countries.

§ 3. Being fully persuaded that vital godliness, a thorough education, and practical training in the works of benevolence and pastoral labor, are all essential to meet the wants and promote the best interests of the kingdom of Christ, the Founders of this Seminary design that its students, remaining under pastoral influence, and performing the duties of church members in the several churches to which they belong, or with which they worship, in prayer-meetings, in the instruction of Sabbath-schools and Bible-classes, and being conversant with all the benevolent efforts of the present day in this great community, shall have the opportunity of adding to solid learning and true piety the teachings of experience.

§ 4. By the foregoing advantages, the Founders hope and expect, with the blessing of God, to call forth and enlist, in the service of Christ and in the work of the ministry, genius, talent, enlightened piety and missionary zeal; and to qualify many for the labors and management of the various religious institutions, seminaries of learning, and enterprises of benevolence, which characterize the present times.

§ 5. In short, it is the design of the Founders to provide a Theological Seminary in the midst of the greatest and most growing community in the United States, which may commend itself to all men of moderate views and feelings, who desire to live free from party strife, and to stand aloof from all extremes of doctrine or of practice.

I do also, in like manner, approve of the Presbyterian Form of Government; and I do solemnly promise, that I will not teach or inculcate anything which shall appear to me to be subversive of the said system of doctrine, or of the principles of said Form of Government, so long as I shall continue to be a Professor in the Seminary.”

§ 4. No student or other person shall in any way have or acquire a right or claim to any room or part thereof, belonging to the Seminary, except through the Faculty. Nor shall any student retain his right or claim to a room any longer than he continues to occupy it personally.

§ 5. No student shall exchange his room for another without permission from the Faculty.

§ 6. Rooms vacated, during the academic year, may be assigned to students by the Faculty, regard being had to the class-standing of the applicants.

§ 7. Every room, the occupant of which is not present at the opening of the academic year, shall be regarded as vacant after ten days; unless the said occupant previously give to the Faculty sufficient reasons for his absence. But in no case shall a room be thus reserved longer than four weeks, at the discretion of the Faculty.

§ 8. If any student shall absent himself from the Seminary without permission from the Faculty, his room shall be regarded as vacant at the expiration of one week; and any student absent with leave shall have no claim to his room after four weeks; nor, whenever the Board are paying rent for rooms out of the Seminary, shall any student, absent with leave, have a claim to his room after one week.

§ 9. No student shall make any fixture in his room except with leave of the Faculty; and any fixture thus permitted, or in any way made, shall thereafter belong to the room.

§ 10. Every student shall be responsible for any injury done to his room or to the furniture thereof.

§ 11. It is expected that all students who are able to provide rooms for themselves will not apply for rooms in the Seminary.
